HISTORICAL NOTE

The Georgia Library Association (GLA) was organized as the Georgia Library Club on 31 May 1897, at the Young Men's Library of Atlanta. There were thirteen charter members and the first president was Anne Wallace. The name was changed to the Georgia Library Association in October 1898. During World War II, there were no meetings held until March 1944; since 1947, regular biennial meetings have been held.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The collection consists of organization files, scrapbooks, correspondence of the Georgia Library Association from 1897-1986. The files include those from committees, officers, sections, the executive board, workshops and conferences, as well as subject files covering organizations and individuals. Scrapbooks (1960-1973) containing photographs, clippings, and printed material were compiled by the Georgia Association of Library Assistants (became Georgia Association of Media Assistants), a group sponsored by GLA.
